The Department of History was established in 1968 in this college. At that time eminent historian Prof. N. C. Dixit was the head of the department. After his departure, Prof. Mohril joined the department, followed by Prof. C. B. Deshpande. After the retirement of C.B. Deshpande I joined the department in 2020.

In view of the growing strength of the students, the department started Post Graduate studies in 2010. Since then the subjects like Ancient India, Medieval India, Historiography, History of Marathas, History of Modern Indian Women, History of Social Reformers of Maharashtra and History of Social Movement in Maharashtra are being taught in the syllabus prescribed for the PG classes of SGBAU, Amravati.

In every academic year, various programmes are organised under the auspices of History Student Club for the personality development of the students. In the current academic session 475 students and 150 students have offered History for Under Graduate and Post Graduate classes respectively.

Most of the students offer History as one of the optional subjects at Under Graduate Classes as they find History to be a very important subject for MPSC and UPSC examination. Hence, day by day the students offering History subject are growing in numbers. Students of other subjects also take interest in reading textbooks of History because they find it interesting and important for MPSC examination. On the whole, the Department of History is progressing towards its goal in the disciplined manner.
